PREFACE.

Robert Clay, of Chesterfield, Derbyshire, and later of Sheffield, Yorkshire, England, married, first, January 15, 1687–8, at Chesterfield, Hannah Slater, daughter of Jonathan and Hannah (Mower) Slater, of Chesterfield; bapt. March 5, 1661, at Chesterfield, Derbyshire; bur. January 3, 1688–9, same place; and, second, Joanna Rawson, daughter of John Rawson, of Walkley, near Sheffield, Co. York.

By his second marriage he had many children, most of whom died young, and none of whom survived him or left any issue except one son, Joseph Clay, of Bridge House, whose daughter Ellen was the last of his descendants of the name of Clay in England.

By his first marriage he had one child, Robert, baptized at Chesterfield December 9, 1688, who came to Philadelphia and married Ann Curtis, December 10, 1710.

I have been for several years engaged in the preparation of a genealogy of this family of Clay of Philadelphia, Pa., and Newcastle, Del., intended to include—

1. The descendants of Robert Clay and Ann Curtis, bearing the name of Clay by birth or marriage.
2. Portraits of all of the above of whom any likeness is known to exist.
3. The ascendants of the wives of Clays.
4. The descendants of female Clays who married.
5. Biographical and descriptive sketches, letters, family papers, and a variety of miscellaneous data, illustrations, and information.

It will take a good while to finish what I have planned, and I have therefore printed Part I, the genealogy alone, without narrative, description, or biography, for the use of the family, with the hope that it may lead them to take interest in the completion of the work, and to assist in it by furnishing information as to their respective branches, such as names and dates of births, marriages, and deaths; copies of entries in parish records or family Bibles, and of obituary and other notices.

Part II is almost entirely completed, and I shall soon have a photographic negative of every Clay of this family of whom any likeness is known to exist, except one, Mrs. George Clay (36), of whose portrait the present owner would not allow a photograph to be taken.

Part III is well under way, as is also Part IV.

Part V will take much work and considerable time to complete, and for this part I request the assistance mentioned above.

I will be glad to correspond with any member of the family in any of its branches interested in the subject, and to receive corrections, additions, or suggestions.

CECIL CLAY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8, 1895.

EXPLANATIONS.

The names of heads of families, to whom reference is subsequently made, are printed in Capitals and preceded by a large figure, thus : 9. CURTIS CLAY.

The maiden names of wives are in parentheses, thus: Ann (Curtis) Clay.

The figures in parentheses refer to the parents by number, thus : 28. JOSEPH CLAY (9, 1) means first child of 9. CURTIS CLAY (3, 1), who in turn is first child of 3. SLATER CLAY, who is (1, 1) first child of 1. ROBERT CLAY.

Names preceded by small figures are not mentioned subsequently.

Titles—Rev., Hon., and the like—are omitted purposely, with all descriptive, biographical, and similar matter, as part Part V of the work I hope to complete will cover all that.

AFTERTHOUGHT.

After reading proof of the foregoing pages, I thought it best to add enough biographical information to enable readers to identify some of the members of the family.

C. C.

ROBERT CLAY, of Bridge House, was an owner of large interests in lead and coal mines in Derbyshire and Yorkshire; wealthy at the time of his eldest son's marriage; more so at his own death later, when, by his will, he cut off his grandchildren, Slater and Thomas Clay, with "five shillings apiece."

1. ROBERT CLAY, Sea Captain. The voyage on which he was lost was to have been his last, his intention being upon his return from it to take his wife, who had been visiting at his father's and in Liverpool for two years, back to Philadelphia and go into business there.

3. SLATER CLAY, Sea Captain when young; later lived in Newcastle, Delaware. Owned "Swanwick," near there; was vestryman of Emmanuel Church.

7. THOMAS CLAY, Merchant at Chestertown, Kent Co., Maryland, then an important port of entry.

9. CURTIS CLAY, Merchant in Philadelphia. Lived on Chestnut St., near Seventh St.

11. Rev. ROBERT CLAY. He and his brother Slater were ordained together Deacon, December 23, 1787; Priest, February 17, 1788; Rector of Emmanuel Church, Newcastle, Delaware, from March 24, 1788, to April 19, 1824; contributed liberally to the church from his private means.

14. Rev. SLATER CLAY. Admitted to the bar in Delaware, May 22, 1777; practised until 1779. Upon the organization of the Council of Delaware State, October 29, 1776, was chosen its clerk, and served in the Councils of 1776 and 1777. Studied for the ministry of the Episcopal Church; Deacon, December 23, 1787; ordained Priest, February 17, 1788; Rector, at the same time, of St. Peter's Church, Great Valley, Chester Co., Pa.; St. David's, Radnor, and also assistant minister of Christ Church, Upper Merion, Montgomery Co.; later gave part of his time to St. Thomas Church, Whitemarsh.

18. ALEXANDER PORTER, first husband of MARY CLAY, Lawyer and wealthy landowner in Delaware; admitted to the bar in Philadelphia in 1705. Lived near Newcastle, Delaware.

MAJOR THOMAS MARSH FORMAN, second husband of MARY CLAY. In the American army in the Revolution as aide on Lord Stirling's staff; inherited his wife's fortune.

19. JAMES BOOTH, husband of ANN CLAY, Lawyer; appointed, in 1804, Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas of the State of Delaware. Their son, James Booth, Jr., was Chief Justice of the State of Delaware.

20. WILLIAM LEES, husband of ELIZABETH CLAY, a London Merchant. Their daughter, Sarah, married Major—afterwards General—Greenstreet, H. E. I. C. S., and British Army.

23. GEORGE CLAY, Sea Captain.

28. JOSEPH CLAY, Member of Congress from Pennsylvania in the 8th, 9th, and 10th Congresses; resigned to accept place of Cashier of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Philadelphia, of which he was one of the organizers; an intimate friend of John Randolph of Roanoke; member of the Philosophical Society of Philadelphia, and an accomplished mathematician.

30. ROBERT CLAY, Sea Captain.

32. CURTIS CLAY, Clerk in bank, &c.; member of First City Troop of Philadelphia; of the State on Schuylkill (Fish-House Club), &c. Moved to New Orleans.

34. SAMUEL HEPBURN, husband of ANN CLAY; graduate of Princeton, 1803; lawyer of prominence of Milton, Northumberland Co., Pa. Their son, James Curtis Hepburn, was a graduate of Princeton in 1832, and of the Medical Department, University of Pennsylvania, in 1836; Missionary to China, 1841 to 1840, and to Japan, 1859 to November, 1892; LL. D., Lafayette College, Pa.; member of numerous American and foreign societies; author of a Japanese and English dictionary, Japanese grammar, &c., &c.; lives at East Orange, N. J.

37. REV. JEHU CURTIS CLAY, D. D. Ordained, in 1813, assistant at Gloria Dei Church, Philadelphia; Rector of St. John's, Norristown, Pa.; went to Newberne, North Carolina; thence to Hagerstown, Maryland; then Rector, at once, of Perkiomen, Norristown, and Old Swede's (Christ)

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
WASHINGTON, D. C.

December 1st 1903.

Wilberforce Eames Esq.
Librarian &c.

Dear Sir -

In reply to your note of yesterday, received this morning, I say that I have sent you, by the same mail as this note, a copy of "The Family of Clay &c" and am glad to comply with your request - If the book has any particular merit it is that everything stated in it as to events dates &c - is vouched for by proper record Church, Court or family - nothing is stated unless proven - This can not be said of the average genealogy -

Yours truly
Cecil Clay -

GEN. CECIL CLAY DEAD.

General Agent of the Department of Justice Expires Suddenly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Gen. Cecil Clay, General Agent of the Department of Justice, died suddenly to-day. He was 65 years old and a native of Philadelphia.

Gen. Cecil Clay was born in Philadelphia Feb. 13, 1842. He received his education in the public schools of Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania, graduating in 1859. He enlisted in the Fifty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers at the outbreak of the civil war, and was soon made its Captain. For gallant services during the war he was brevetted Brigadier General of United States Volunteers.

Gen. Clay received a Congressional medal of honor for distinguished services during the storming of Fort Harrison. In this battle he lost his right hand and was severely wounded, but insisted on staying in the front. At the end of the war Gen. Clay became the head of the St. Lawrence Boom and Manufacturing Company.

He was well known as a crack rifle shot on the range and as a hunter of big game. He was a frequent contributor to Forest and Stream. He became General Agent of the United States Department of Justice in 1887.
